The present is an age of advice to the president elected of Ulster and here is no shortage. The Ulsterman representing the interest in the Council, Sir Edward Carson, whose later career is associated in the public of the Ulsters under the task, have refused to subscribe such proposals. Lawless's remarks on the subject are worthy of the consideration of the members of the Council. Belfast

A colonial statesman that a strong effort is to be made to avoid the amendment [illegible] from the House of Lords "on account of our recent visit [illegible] to which he has no responsible agency." Sir, as the same correspondent remarks, though there are many of the noble Lords who would be pleased to hit the Upper House of Aristocrats, there are some such put a few strong facts and a well bitten dose to who would [illegible] to British Navy would expose their very good friends. Just if the business of repairing the House of Lords, a can be not noted to the sure dissolution Commons, which Sir Rufus Isaacs feels a spot

The house orator was already at full swing, thanks was used and exchanged. Several short speeches were [illegible]. Shades were to arrive and leave. The Chicago produce exchange were quite active that most people expected, and grain was really strong with encouraging advices from the United Kingdom. As compared with Thursday puts and corn closed firm, [illegible] and oats 1/4 cent higher, were and oats 1/4 cent higher, being 1 cents higher and that under 2 cents higher. The receipts to this city across the portal were estimated for Wednesday at 20,000 bushels in wheat and 20,000 bushels in corn. The opening of the wheat deals the close of October including 1,000,000 bags, against 1,000,000 for the same time [illegible]

It is not likely that there will be any serious opposition to the Republican nominee for alderman in the new Twenty-first Ward. The only objections that are raised to Mr. Hinton are [illegible] of private persons to the appointment of private persons to the expenses. A Mr. Duffy of South Chicago has objected to [illegible] a member of municipal government. Mr. Duffy has doubtless refused [illegible] this time. The only thing urged against Mr. Hinton is that as a lawyer he defended the holdings to the best of his ability [illegible] manner. But, as the business men [illegible] of Alderman Hinton's efforts, perhaps this objection will not count against him for long. The Irish Democratic organization, however, is expected to oppose the election of Mr. Hinton, and will be the election of this evening, following the defection [illegible] Congressman John D. Rogers of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, and Mayor [illegible] Avery. "I'd a tale should be taken to Dublin today I have no doubt was to avoid [illegible] Lord Dublin [illegible] Commons, where Sir Stephen Gaelic took a seat.

WHEN THE SPRING COMES.

WINTER'S WHITE WRAITH

"I WISH YOU HAD SOAP THAT WOULD FLOAT," a lady said to a clerk in a large grocery store. "You have no idea how ordinary soap is wanted. The servants let it remain in the bottoms of the washtubs, dish-pans, and scrubbing-pails, and when the water is poured off, the soap has the consistency of mush, and a new bar must be taken from the box. If the soap would only float, they would see it, and take it out of the water when they were through with it."

The "Ivory Star" floats, replied the clerk. Of will float; and, as the "Ivory Star" is made of oils, and is 99 44/100 per cent. pure, as a matter of course it will float.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, and represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory'"; they ARE NOT, but the all insensible, look for powder and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

AFTER LEAVING COLLEGE.

What Girls Think When Are after Their Graduation.

Some Marry, Some Become Bright, and a Large Number Go to Work—Some Write to Father About Getting Off the Minister—One Teaches of Women Employed in the English Post Office—How They Obtain Work.

New York Sun: The interesting statistics as to the occupations of the women graduates of twenty American colleges have been gathered for the Association of Collegiate Alumnæ, and are published in Harper's Bazar.

Of women who graduated 20 years ago and more, 1,000 are married, 200 are teachers, 50 are in other occupations, and 150 are said to be engaged in remunerative work, which in most cases, however, is unpaid, and which in not many cases is anything more than a hobby. Of those who graduated between 10 and 20 years ago 61 per cent are married, while more than one-fifth are teaching and gainful occupations engross the time of a little more than a quarter of the graduates. Of those who graduated within the last decade, that is, of women who have not yet had time to marry, 10 per cent are teaching, and many of these are doing so only for the particular sense of personal duty to life, for the salaries cover a period reaching many years.

We infer, too, from the comprehensive fact that proportionately a smaller number of the married in this class of the colleges from which women have been longest graduated, both undergraduate women's halls, as they are now called, than those who do not conform to prevailing customs. Charles Carroll, for instance, graduated from college early in 1800, and the proportion of married women from that college was small. Anne Gardner, 1805, of the old Academy of Upper Canada at York, afterward Toronto, in the Lake Ontario region, which was then a part of the United States, born in 1775, but married late in life, and Catharine Parr Traill, 1818, married when forty-five years old, and Susanna Moodie, 1818, married when thirty-two years old, are examples of women who have been prominent in literature and who married late in life. Of the 1,000 graduates 50 years ago and more, 200 are married, 50 are teaching, 50 are in other occupations, and 700 are said to be engaged in remunerative work,
